David Berman
Class Year: 1963

David Ira Berman retired in 2018 and has been busy with “grandkids, house, etc.”

James Friedlander
Class Year: 1966

James Friedlander writes: “Retirement is not what it used to be. Have taken on two part-time general counsel roles this year. One is with a new cannabis company involved in the cultivation, processing, and sale and distribution of CBD oil and other cannabis products. The other is general counsel with a new company treating mentally ill patients in the U.K. with drugs and therapies. In addition to many hours of walking each week.”

Gerhardt Bubník LL.M.
Class Year: 1969

Gerhardt Bubník LL.M. shares that he has written (in Czech) an autobiography which includes a lot about HLS, “Law and Sport—My Passions: The Life Odyssey of Harvard’s first Czech Law Graduate.” Some of other things he focuses on include his youth under Nazi occupation during WWII, his education and work as a lawyer in Communist Czechoslovakia and during the Cold War, and his 30 years of judging top international figure skating competitions. His storytelling is complemented by more than 160 photographs and contemporary documents. Bubník adds that his “friends from both law and sport areas” convinced him to translate the book into English, and the translation appeared on Amazon in summer 2020 as an e-book.
Percival Park
Class Year: 1969

Percival D. Park writes that he retired from his job with the U.S. government in 2010. His wife, Nora Lee Lilly Park, passed away in December 2008.

Charles Rosenberg
Class Year: 1971

Charles B. Rosenberg writes: “My second alternative history novel (and the sixth novel overall), ‘The Day Lincoln Lost,’ was published by an imprint of HarperCollins on Aug 4. On the same day, my first ‘what if,’ ‘The Trial and Execution of the Traitor George Washington,’ was released in paperback.” Rosenberg also continues to practice law on a part-time basis. He adds that he and his wife Sally Anne recently sold their house of 45 years in the canyons and moved to Westwood, California, not far from UCLA. Sally Anne, retired from teaching high school math, writes and publishes novellas she refers to as “fictional autobiographies” (e.g., “My Story by Helen of Troy”). Rosenberg welcomes friends to email him at LALawyerCB@aol.com.

Daniel Share
Class Year 1976

Daniel M. Share, a member at Barris, Sott, Denn & Driker, has been named Lawyer of the Year for Real Estate Law in the metropolitan Detroit area for 2021. Share has a broad practice with an emphasis on real estate, general corporate affairs, and resolution of business disputes.
Tom Minogue
Class Year: 1979

Tom Minogue has been named 2021 “Lawyer of the Year” in Corporate Compliance Law by “The Best Lawyers in America.” He is a partner at Thompson Coburn in St. Louis.

Regina Montoya
Class Year: 1979

Regina Montoya, CEO and chairperson of Regina T. Montoya, PLLC in Dallas, was honored in August with the Margaret Brent Women Lawyers of Achievement Award from the ABA’s Commission on Women in the Profession. Having served in the White House as an assistant to the president and director of the Office of Intergovernmental Affairs, Montoya has also been a senior vice president and general counsel at Children’s Medical Center of Dallas and CEO of the New America Alliance, a national nonprofit organization whose mission is to promote the economic advancement of the American Latino community. She is currently writing a book about the importance of incorporating Latinos into the economic, political, and social fabric of America, and she is a frequent speaker on issues such as health care, poverty, diversity, and children.
Raymond Belliotti
Class Year: 1982

Raymond Angelo Belliotti, SUNY Distinguished Teaching Professor of Philosophy Emeritus, has published his 23rd book: “Values, Virtues, and Vices, Italian Style: Caesar, Dante, Machiavelli, and Garibaldi” (Fairleigh Dickinson University Press).

Randolph (Randy) Elliott
Class Year 1983

Randolph “Randy” Elliott has rejoined the Washington, D.C., office of McCarter & English as a partner in the environment and energy practice group. Previously, he served as senior director, regulatory counsel for the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, an organization that represents the interests of over 900 electric cooperatives in the United States.

Martin Murphy
Class Year: 1983

Foley Hoag litigation partner Martin F. Murphy began a one-year term as president of the Boston Bar Association in September. He was previously the BBA’s president-elect, treasurer, and secretary, and he now also chairs or co-chairs several of its working groups, including the COVID-19 Response Working Group. A partner at Foley Hoag for over 15 years, Murphy represents companies, individuals, nonprofit institutions, and law firms in complex civil litigation, criminal investigations, and regulatory proceedings. He serves as the American College of Trial Lawyers’ Regent for the First Circuit and the Atlantic Provinces of Canada, is on the board of the Criminal Justice Act Panel for the District of Massachusetts, and is a member of the board of directors of the ACLU of Massachusetts.
John Cafferky
Class Year 1986

John F. Cafferky, a principal at Blankingship & Keith, has been named to the 2021 edition of “The Best Lawyers in America” for Education Law.

Michael (Mike) Juneau
Class Year 1987

Michael Juneau has been appointed U.S. district judge for the Western District of Louisiana.

Eric Peterman
Class Year: 1988

Eric J. Peterman has joined Sugar Felsenthal Grais & Helsinger as a partner in the firm’s recently opened New York office. He helps clients develop unique transactions and new financial products, including structured products, derivatives, and insurance-related securities.

Lisa Ferrell
Class Year: 1990

In April, Lisa Ferrell, a real estate developer in Arkansas, launched ARClothMasks, a company specializing in distributing CDC-compliant cloth masks to help stop the spread of COVID-19. By early August, the company had delivered over 800,000 masks, supplying over 750 clients including hospitals, universities, school districts, and major corporations around the state and the country.
Sarah Fitts
Class Year: 1990

Sarah A. W. Fitts, an energy and infrastructure partner at Schiff Hardin, co-edited “Distributed Generation Law: A Guide to Regulations, Policies, and Programs.” Taking an in-depth look at the history and regulatory journey of distributed energy generation, which is dramatically redesigning our electric grid, the book describes the transformation of the power industry and covers topics including cybersecurity, competing state law approaches to regulation, and the U.S. Department of Defense’s adoption of distributed generation throughout its operations.

Becky (Wickhem) House
Class Year: 1998

Becky (Wickhem) House has been named senior vice president and chief administrative and legal officer at Rockwell Automation in Milwaukee, where she previously served as chief legal officer. She is now responsible for accelerating the evolution of the company’s culture and leading its human resources and talent teams in addition to her existing oversight of the legal, corporate governance, physical and information security, compliance, and public affairs teams. House also serves on the board of directors for FMI Funds Inc., Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation, and MIND Research Institute, and is a director of Sojourner Foundation, the largest provider of domestic violence services in Wisconsin.
Christopher Edwards
Class Year: 1998

Christopher A. Edwards has been promoted from counsel to the New Jersey attorney general to executive assistant attorney general (for the state of New Jersey). He advises the attorney general on the office’s most sensitive and significant legal matters, and oversees the state’s defensive litigation docket.

Augusto Mantilla-Serrano
Class Year: 1999

Augusto Mantilla-Serrano LL.M., executive vice president for national security at SICPA in Springfield, Virginia, was interviewed for an upcoming issue of The Top 100 Magazine 2020 edition. He writes, “SICPA is a global leader in product authentication, identification, and secure traceability solutions and services by integrating material and digital security, enabling their clients worldwide, governments and brand owners alike, to create an environment where markets are secure and people can be confident in their products.” In his interview, Mantilla-Serrano talks about how the skills he acquired in the military, at Harvard Law School, and through his work in companies around the world prepared him for his role.
Suma Nair
Class Year: 2005

Suma V. Nair has been appointed to the board of directors of the American Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts, which she has served as an Amicus Committee member. She is a director in the private client and trust group at Goulston & Storrs in Boston and a member of the firm’s executive committee. In addition to her work with ACLUM, Nair is a trustee of the Boston Bar Foundation, a fellow of the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel, and a member of the steering committee for the Cambridge Forum on Private Wealth Law.

---

David Sclar
Class Year: 2007

David Sclar writes, “I have joined WW International (Weight Watchers reimagined) as their health care compliance and privacy officer.”

---

Heather Schafroth
Class Year: 2008

Heather Schafroth has joined Caplin & Drysdale as an associate in the international tax practice group in the firm’s Washington, D.C., office. Her practice focuses on advising individuals and businesses on a range of tax issues with a focus on international tax and transfer pricing planning and advocacy for corporate clients.
Andrew Schrag
Class Year 2011

Andrew Schrag has joined Blank Rome’s corporate litigation group as an associate in the Chicago office. He previously practiced at GoodSmith Gregg & Unruh and Kirkland & Ellis.

Grace Nosek
Class Year 2014

Grace Nosek is the author of "American voters in Canada could hold the key to our climate future, and many don't even know it," (read at: https://www.cbc.ca/news/opinion/opinion-climate-change-us-election-1.5737579) an op-ed published by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. on September 25, 2020. The piece explores how inextricably linked the U.S. and Canada are when it comes to the climate crisis and the profound gap between the climate plans of President Donald Trump and Democratic presidential candidate Joe Biden, ultimately highlighting how Americans and dual citizens in Canada could be a key voting bloc to advance climate justice in the 2020 U.S. election if they actually turned out. Nosek is a Ph.D. candidate in law at the University of British Columbia and the founder of the Climate Hub there. Her research studying the fossil fuel industry’s campaign to undermine climate science is supported by a Pierre Elliott Trudeau Foundation doctoral scholarship and a Killam doctoral scholarship.

Rebecca Johnson
Class Year 2019

Rebecca L. Johnson, an associate at Pietragallo Gordon Alfano Bosick & Raspanti in Pittsburgh, is a member of Allegheny County Bar Association’s Young Lawyers Division Bar Leadership Initiative Class of 2020-2021. The BLI trains young lawyers of the ACBA for additional leadership roles over the course of their careers.